CRInfo With Keygen

CRInfo is a lightweight and easy-to-use application that determines if your computer is compatible with any of the camera models supported by the app. If you are looking to buy a new camera and you need to make sure that it will synchronize and will be supported by your system, CRInfo will run a diagnostic and determine which of the 500 cameras are compatible with your PC. It would be advised to check before getting a camera if the model you want is covered by the app. The interface is a plain white list that holds around 500 camera models. The scan starts when the program is executed and when it reaches 100% all the compatible devices are going to be written in black and the non-compliant ones grayed out. Furthermore, the application requires no installation process, so you can upload it on a USB stick or any removable drive and use it on any systems you need. In conclusion, CRInfo is a straightforward tool that quickly determines if your camera model can be safely synchronized with your computer, in order to avoid a unwanted process of changing the PC or the camera. Regarding the overall operation, there is nothing easier than running the program and waiting for the results.... 10/26/2010 - Version 1.5 - 100% compliant
